

Joris Dommels is an enormously gifted and talented freelance director and copywriter. His work has often been described as mind-blowing, pure genius, and stupendously epic. In his spare time he writes award winning short biographies about himself in third person.